Relax Wage Curbs; Set New Deadline

WSB Allows All Increases on, Before Jan. 25

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The government today eased the wage freeze to permit all wages raises granted Jan. 25, or before, which apply to a pay period starting Feb. 9 or before.

The action was taken by the Wage Stabilization Board by a vote of 6 to 3, with the three industry members dissenting.

The new order permits a wage increase of $1.60 a day for about 400,000 soft coal miners which takes effect tomorrow.

The announcement of the regulation and three other wage orders clarifying the wage freeze was made by Board Chairman Cyrus Ching at a suddenly called news conference.

One of the new orders exempts state, county, and municipal employes—but not federal—from the wage freeze. But the regulation says states and other governments which fix the wages of those employes are "expected" to conform to the wage freeze and whatever other policy is laid down by the board.

The board did not at this time announce a general formula under which wages may be raised up to a certain percentage beyond some past date. That will come later.

Earlier, Senator Byrd (D-Va) had spoken out against permitting wage increases agreed upon but not actually in effect before the government imposed the freeze.

Spread of Rail Strike Cripples Freight Traffic

Vital Points Hit by Walkout Of Switchmen

Roads Curtailing Freight, Passenger Traffic in Midwest

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, (AP) — The Railway Express Agency, acting in the face of a wildcat strike of railroad switchmen, today clamped an embargo on rail express shipments between 14 northeastern states and the rest of the nation.

The fast-spreading strike of switchmen crippled freight traffic at vital points on the nation's rail network today.

The wildcat walkout, which started yesterday in Chicago and Detroit, fanned out quickly to eight other cities.

At least 21 railroads were hit directly. Many others were affected indirectly because of the tie-up of switching lines.

A spokesman for the army, which has had technical control of the rail lines since a strike threat last August, said freight was "frozen" on all but four roads in Chicago, the U. S. transportation hub.

Embargoes on freight were announced by six roads in Chicago —two belt lines, the Chesapeake & Ohio, NorthWestern, Illinois Central and New York Central.

Claim Illness

Some of the roads in Chicago said yard workers reported for duty this morning and left, claiming they were ill.

In Chicago, the Pennsylvania canceled three passenger trains, the Illinois Central dropped 12 and the New York Central 13.

Thousands of freight cars were standing idle in yards.

In Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania said only a handful of freight crewmen were on duty.

Declare Embargo

The Terminal Railroad Association in St. Louis declared an embargo on all freight, including industrial shipments, livestock and perishable goods. The association reported about 1,000 switchmen were off their jobs. Switch crews also were off duty on the Missouri, Kansas-Texas and Cotton Belt lines.

In Washington, D. C., all 23 crews — each made up of a conductor and two brakemen — failed to show up this morning at the Union station.

A survey showed walkouts in Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Buffalo, N. Y., Peoria, Ill., Washington, Portland, Ore.,

Dixon Youth Center Fund Receives Four Donations

Collections from Dixon businesses and individuals for the youth center fund total $185 after the first day of the campaign to collect $2,000 to operate the center in 1951.

Remaining to be collected is $1,815. The Rev. Vernon L. S. Jones of St. Luke's Episcopal church estimates the $2,000 is necessary to keep the teen-age hub going through the year. This center, supervised by the Rev. Jones, is the only place in Dixon where youngsters can gather for dancing and recreation.

Contributions to the youth center fund can be mailed to THE YOUTH CENTER FUND, EVENING TELEGRAPH, DIXON, ILL. Names of donors will be published daily unless a request is made for anonymity.

Here are the first four contributors:

Name Six New Members of Dixon Chamber of Commerce

Six new members of the board of directors of the Dixon chamber of commerce were listed today following a report from election tellers, Joseph Graff and D. H. Sunday.

The men were selected after tabulation of mail ballots from chamber members. The new directors are Louis Berrettini, George Lindquist, Carl Matson, Carl Hasselberg, Vic Eichler and Richard Joslyn.

They will replace retiring directors Howard Byers, Neil Howell, Walter C. Knack, Lyle Melvin, Evar Swanson and Max Van Scoy.

Holdover members of the board of directors are Harold Cook, Glen F. Coe, C. L. Ballard, Harry Bates; Henry O. Lovett and C. J. Welch.

The new board members were elected for a two-year term. Another six members are installed each year.

Tentative plans for a chamber of commerce meeting to install new officers place the meeting on Feb. 12.

At a special chamber meeting yesterday afternoon members discussed holding a Business Industrial Education day sometime in February. On this day teachers from Dixon schools would be taken through factories to learn part of the business situation in the city.

Chamber of Commerce Secretary Frances Patrick said today she has copies of a consolidated synopsis of the government procurement information bulletin. Businessmen wishing to know who to contact for material procurement are asked to come to the chamber office and consult the synopsis.

Widow of Rochelle Fireman Given $2,080 in Bonds

ROCHELLE—The widow of a fireman killed in a downtown blaze Dec. 27 was presented $2,080 in bonds Tuesday.

The bonds, given to Mrs. Clara Wendt, also bore the names of her children, Janice and Rodney. Her husband, Kenneth Wendt, was killed in a fire that destroyed the Hornsby building and damaged adjoining structures.

Wendt's mother, Mrs. Martha Wendt, was given $500. The money was contributed by local organizations and individuals.

Mustang Sets Trans-Atlantic Speed Record

Pilot Averages 450-MPH in New York-London Hop

LONDON, (AP)—Airline Capt. Charles Blair, in a Mustang fighter plane, today smashed all records for a flight from New York to London.

Blair, a 41-year-old Pan American Airways pilot, streaked out of the darkness over London airport just seven hours and 48 minutes after his dawn takeoff on the other side of the Atlantic.

His average speed for the nonstop solo trip of some 3,500 miles was about 450 miles per hour.

His "Flying Gas Tank"—named Excalibur the Third—left New York's Idlewild airport at 3:50 a. m., CST. (9:50 a. m. British time) and was clocked in here at 5:38 p. m. (11:38 a. m., CST).

Good Tail Wind

Blair flew much of the way at an altitude of over 25,000 feet. He was pushed along by a tremendous tail wind which at times blew more than 130 miles an hour.

The old London-New York record of eight hours, 55 minutes was set by a Pan-American Stratocruiser, carrying 24 passengers, on Nov. 22, 1949.

Its pilot was Capt. Charles Titus of Great Neck, L. I.

Blair's single-engined Mustang is modified to 865 gallons of high test gasoline inside the wings and fuselage without external tanks.

Studies Wind

His flight had a double purpose —to set a new speed record and to study the effect of the high velocity winds of the lower stratosphere on transAtlantic airliners.

City of Denver Has Trouble in Clinton, Sterling

Chicago NorthWestern's City of Denver ran into trouble today in both Clinton, Ia., and Sterling.

In Clinton, it was held up an hour after it hit a car driven on a crossing by Paul Parmer, 26, Clinton. Parmer was hospitalized with minor injuries. The car was reported to be a "total loss."

The iCty of Denver was held up in Sterling another two hours when a crane broke and two tank cars were derailed. The roadmaster's office reported that no one was hurt.

SHE WAS WORTH $10—Eight-year-old Shirley O'Brien was worth only $10 to her parents who sold her to a service station operator named Cecil Glover in Arizona. Shirley's parents, Mary and William O'Brien, are migratory workers who have four other children. Glover, a married man with two children of his own, offered to take Shirley in return for 5 dollars, a tank of gas and some minor repairs. Juvenile officers are doubtful that this adoption procedure is legal and are holding Shirley while they hunt her parents.

60-Hour Zero Wave Ends at Noon Today

It'll Be a Bit Warmer Thursday Say Forecasters

The sub-zero readings started about midnight Sunday, with the low being a -20 at 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Here's the breakdown for the last 24 hours from INU records:

War Criminals Spared, Krupp Gets Release

Storm Troopers Saved From Death By U. S. Action

FANKFURT, (AP)—American authorities today spared 21 German war criminals from the gallows, freed German steel magnate Alfried Krupp and restored his property rights in the multi-million-dollar Krupp industrial empire.

Those saved from death included six former Nazi S.S. troopers convicted of murdering U. S. soldiers in the infamous "Malmedy Massacre."

Eight of the highest executives of the Krupp industrial empire also were freed in a sweeping review of all remaining U. S.-tried war crimes cases. But U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy and U. S. Military Commander Gen. Thomas T. Handy confirmed seven deaths sentences, including four men convicted of slaughtering more than 1,000,000 Jews and gypsies and former SS Maj.-Gen. Osold Pohl, who bossed Hitler's concentration camp system.

At the same time U. S. authorities modified many other prison terms imposed by American war crimes tribunals.

The new rulings followed special consideration of all remaining war crimes cases, undertaken in the face of a growing German clamor against war crimes verdicts.

Those saved from death has been in Landsberg prison under sentence for more than four years.

WASHINGTON— PRESIDENT Truman and French Premier Pleven wind up two-day talks with pledge not to compromise with Soviet or Red China aggression.

Truman to Ask 16 Billion of Added Burden

Individuals Will Get 25 Per Cent Increase, Word

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The outline of the biggest tax increase in history—reported at about $16,500,000,000 in two bills, or a "quickie" — was presented by President Truman personally today to congressional tax writers.

In unveiling his pay-as-you-go plan to finance the huge defense effort, the President made a bid for bi-partisan support. He invited the 10 Republican members of the House Ways and Means committee to the White House, as well as the 15 Democrats.

Usually, only Democrats are invited to such previews of impending presidential recommendations.

Asked to Keep Secret

The Ways and Means members were asked to keep secret everything discussed.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) told reporters he expects Mr. Truman's recommendations in a message Friday.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, members of the President's council of economic advisers and Frederick Lawton, director of the budget, sat in on today's meeting.

Following the session, there were Capitol Hill reports that Truman may be expected to ask for a two-package method for rolling in the revenue, and that the first package collect up to $10,000,000,000 in about this fashion.

Up 25 Per Cent

1. An increase of about $4,000,000,000 in the taxes on over 50,000,000 individual income taxpayers. This would be an overall increase of about 25 per cent on individuals. However, the burden would not fall that heavily on all. The extra money here may be raised by an increase of four percentage points in each bracket of the income tax. It was indicated the President is not thinking at this time of lowering the present $600 personal exemption to $500.

Boost Corporation Tax

2. A boost of about $3,000,000,000 in corporation taxes, by raising the present corporation rate probably as high as 55 per cent, from its present 47 per cent level; and probably by adjustments in the present 77 per cent corporation excess profits tax.

3. Broadening and increases in the excise tax field, and plugging of the tax law loopholes, to bring in about $3,000,000,000 more. Some tax writers thought this might mean an increase in liquor taxes from $9 a gallon to $12, and boosts in wine, beer, tobacco, gasoline and some other excise levies, as well as bringing new items into the list which originally was designed to embrace so-called "luxuries."

Army Bound!

Twenty-one more Lee county youths left Dixon today for Chicago and army khaki.

The original order called for 28 to report for induction but six were students deferred temporarily to allow them to complete their school year and the seventh was injured in a freak accident Tuesday.

He was Charles A. Emmert, 22, of 1222 Chestnut avenue. Emmert's right forefinger was amputated in KSB hospital yesterday after he accidentally discharged a 12-gauge shotgun. The blast tore his finger and went on to rip a five-inch hole in a concrete basement wall.

The draft order for today was the largest since the start of the Korean war June 25 and the first since the wholesale withdrawal of United Nations forces from North Korea last December.

The clerk of Lee county draft board 155, Mrs. Carrie Root, told The Telegraph the group consisted mainly of 20 and 21-year-olds, with a few being 22.

Selective service has now called 72 men from Lee county. Another six are due to leave Valentine's day, Feb. 14, and 40 more are scheduled to report for physical examination Feb. 9.

American Legion members were at the depot before 6 a. m. to distribute candy bars and cigarets to the 21 who left for Chicago on the 6:18 train.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Boyle's Not Happy to Leave The Sadness on Korean Front

By HAL BOYLE

TAEGU, KOREA, (AP)— This is where I came into the Korean war more than six months ago.

And this is where I left it.

You would think a man would be happy at the chance to go back to America after spending half a year in a land as sorry and unhappy as Korea.

But the truth is I didn't want to go. I would rather stay and see how the campaign finally came out.

With All Retreats

In two wars I had retreated with the American army on three continents—at Kasserine gap in Africa, at Spa in the battle of the Belgian bulge, at Seoul in Korea. In the retreats in Africa and Europe I had stayed with the American troops through the entire ordeal and still was with them when they counterattacked and moved back to victory.

This time there was no real prospect of a final victory. The best that can be gained in Korea now is a bitter diplomatic compromise. It was for this very reason that I hungered most to stay here.

Sad Half Year

But this has been the longest and saddest half year of my life. I had reached a point where I felt I could no longer do well the job that is mine—to tell the story of individual men in battle.

When a reporter no longer can write about what he sees, it is time that he pasture his spirit elsewhere for a time. And that is why I left for home, neither the first nor the last to go—but one who wants to try it again, when he can do it again.

Friends Below

In the plane I boarded were a number of happy soldiers getting a five day leave back in Japan. We took off. The plane circled over a bare field dotted with white crosses. It was the largest United Nations cemetery in Korea.

In six months I had made some friends and lost some friends, and some of them were there under the crosses below.

I felt I might never see Korea again, or know these dead and living friends again as I had known them here. I pulled my chin down into my parka and cried silently and alone until I fell asleep.

That was the parting I had from Korea, where better men than I have lost something they never can recover—no, not even if tomorrow a candle of peace were suddenly lit upon every bloody frozen hill from Manchuria to Pusan.

Der Bingle Gave Up Law to Sing, Almost Laid an Egg

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—It was probably the most dilapidated looking Ford roadster ever seen before or since on Hollywood Boulevard. It had no fenders or headlights and the engine coughed like a high school heroine in "Camille."

Behind the wheel was 23-year-old Harry Lillis Crosby, otherwise known as Bing, who had just quit Gonzaga University law school because, he had told his mother, "I'd rather sing than eat."

PERFORMER: The "biggest hit radio could remember" shows how he got that way—and stayed there—during a broadcast in 1945 with Claudette Colbert and a crooner named Frank Sinatra.

Sitting beside Bing was Alton Rinker, 24, erstwhile band leader, "hot" piano player and "hot" singer.

Three weeks before they had purchased the car for $40 and left homes in Spokane, Wash., with a lunch packed by Mrs. Crosby, to win fame and fortune. They sang for their meals and gasoline along the way and Bing had sold a drum with a Hawaiian sunset painted on it to pay a garage repair bill.

* * *

Destiny had great things in store for the kid behind the wheel.

He was the fourth of seven children—five boys and two girls—born to Harry Lowe and Kate Crosby in Tacoma, Wash. When Bing was five the family moved to Spokane.

Because of the numerous children and Pop's small salary as a bookkeeper, there wasn't much money. Bing got his first job, at 12, chopping wood at $2 a week.

But there was music at the Crosby home. There was an old Edison phonograph in the living room, Pop Crosby played the guitar, Mother Crosby played the piano and all the kids sang.

In the fifth grade, Crosby made his acting debut—he was a jumping jack on a pogo stick. In high school, he was Mark Anthony in 'Julius Caesar." The curtain fell and Mark, supposedly dead, rolled out of its way. He gave much better performances on the baseballs, football and swimming teams.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the second of three dispatches by NEA's Hollywood reporter that tell the fabulous success story of Bing Crosby, the erstwhile playboy who fell uphill to the big time and has stayed on the top in show business, radio and on records for 20 years.

At Gonzaga University, where Bing was studying to be a lawyer, he met Rinker, who led a dance band. Soon Bing was beating a drum and singing a hot chorus or two at school dances and in local vaudeville. The year was 1925.

Fade to Hollywood Boulevard in 1926 and that Ford chugging down the street—

Rinker's sister, singer Mildred Bailey, was living in Hollywood. She got Bing and Al their first singing job. Bing remembers:

"We laid two big gooey eggs."

There were other jobs. A year passed by. Not bad. Not good.

Then one night in 1927 Paul Whiteman caught their vaudeville act and hired them as vocalists. Things looked bright despite Whiteman's crack to Bing:

"With those ears and that fanny I doubt whether you'll get anywhere."

Whiteman took Crosby and Rinker with him to New York where, for laughs, he introduced them as "a couple of boys I picked up in a Walla Walla ice cream parlor." They were a hit in a Chicago stopover but flopped in New York. Whiteman was ready to fire them when a youngster from Denver named Harry Barris suggested he team up with them to form a trio.

It was the birth of Paul Whiteman's Rhythm Boys. Their salaries: $125 a week each. For two years musically they were hits.

ON THE WAY: Bing looked like this when he sang for Whiteman, who doubted if he'd get anywhere "with those ears."

When Whiteman returned to California in 1929 for the movie, "The King of Jazz," the Rhythm Boys did one three-minute song number in the picture, played one theater date with Whiteman in Seattle and were fired. They popped up back in Hollywood at a night club with Gus Arnheim's orchestra, and moved with him to the Cocoanut Grove, at $175 a week each, in 1930.

* * *

It was at the Grove that Crosby's name became box office. In September, 1930, he was saying "I do" to Dixie Lee. Then he quit Arnheim when he was refused a raise, and again was jobless and broke.

That was the end of the Rhythm Boys and the start of a "new" Crosby. He hired his brother Everett (who gave up a trucking business) to manage his career.

Bing Crosby, by 1931, was a "hot" commodity.

He made 12 records at $125 each for some quick honeymoon cash.

Everett sold him to Mack Sennett for six musical shorts, each based on a popular song, at $750 a week. Remembers Mack:

"Crosby was all hands, ears and hips. We taped back his ears because they stuck out so far. One day the adhesive broke loose and Bing ripped it off swearing I wouldn't tape his ears again. I didn't."

* * *

Then came New York radio and the "Battle of the Crooners."

Russ Columbo, violinist in Arnheim's band, had turned singer and was the nation's No. 1 popular radio crooner. Within a week after Bing and Everett arrived in New York, Bing had a $600-a-week (soon raised to $3500) singing contract with CBS and a $1000-a-week contract for personal appearances on the stage of the Paramount Theater, where he was carried out on a crane over the audience's heads to croon his love songs. He was a sensation—the biggest hit Broadway could remember, the biggest hit radio could remember.

The money started to roll in, and Bing, who had learned his lesson, kept telling Everett:

"Put it in the bank before I spend it. Put it in the bank."

SCHOOLBOY: In high school, Bing did better in baseball than in "Julius Caesar."

Everett was way ahead of him.

"Relax, kid, it's already in the bank."

By 1932 Crosby was back in Hollywood for his triple chores—movies, radio and recordings. Paramount signed him to his first starring contract in 1932.

No longer do they tape back his ears.

His only concession to being a movie star is that greasepaint and a $75 toupee. He hates them both.

Tomorrow: The Crosby empire.

Land of Perpetual Hunger, India, Periled by Locusts

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

An India already sufferiug from a grain shortage is threatened by a fresh and very terrible danger in the form of a vast swarm of locusts ten miles long, bent on ravaging the vital wheat fields of the Punjab.

Should this plague destroy the Punjab wheat, it would mean tragedy for millions of hungry people; probably death for many.

Hunger Perpetual

One speaks of millions of hungry people advisedly for there are in India hosts of unfortunates who never have all they want to eat. Hunger is perpetual.

This raid into India is nothing new. Such invasions of locusts are frequent and they follow the same course. They start from breeding grounds in Africa and sweep across the Middle East into India and Pakistan.

These, and numerous other countries, have been afflicted since biblical times, at least, and presumably long before that.

Hit Asia in December

Last December the dread plague of locusts darkened the skies over vast areas of Africa and southwest Asia, not only threatening famine by devouring food crops, but eating cotton and other essentials. The menace of these raids is shown by the huge area covered in this December foray.

The countries afflicted included Egypt, the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Libia, Ethiopia, Somaliland, Kenya, Tanganyika, French Equatorial, Africa, Algeria, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon, Iran, Pakistan and India.

Permanent control of the locust menace is said to be possible by international action, because the locusts don't breed over wide areas simultaneously, but in localized places. The idea is to attack the breeding places. In 1949 representatives of Belgium, Southern Rhodesia and South Africa met in London and signed a convention sitting up an international council for control of the red locusts in Africa.

Colleges Can Take 'Fix' Out of Basketball

The New York basketball scandal involving two youths from Manhattan college is about the seventh unearthed in the past few years.

When a sordid story like this keeps repeating itself, it seems fair to ask: What can we do about it?

It's not enough to deplore the character weakness that leads an occasional young athlete to succumb to a bribe. Some of the coaches of eastern teams have been inclined to put the blame on this. One went so far as to describe the newest plot as a "crime of the times," adding: "We're living in a period of lawlessness."

But we should at least explore the possibility that other facts have a bearing on these recurring scandals.

One stand-out fact is that in recent years basketball has become much more of a spectacle than formerly. Rules changes that paved the way for high-scoring duels were a prelude. Then the sports promoters began taking the game off the campus and into the big arenas like Madison Square Garden, the Chicago Stadium and others.

They couldn't have done this, of course, without the collaboration of the colleges involved. The schools obviously were attracted by the lure of big gates. To some small institutions, basketball became the same sort of provider that football is to big schools.

Not only do the receipts help the schools defray other athletic costs; they add prestige and stature to these institutions and thus help their general revenues.

Some of the basketball contests have had all the flavor of football bowl games: big intersectional matches between top teams from coast to coast. From the fans' viewpoint, this meant a great show. From the players' standpoint, excitement, travel, the test of the "big time."

But all these good things have been bought at a considerable price. The game has become infected with extreme commercialization. It has become an open invitation to big gamblers, and they have accepted the opportunity. The record of fixed games tells the tale.

Some may argue that, now that gamblers have moved in, the game couldn't be recaptured from them even if big arena contests were barred and basketball returned to the campus.

College authorities who first took the Army-Notre Dame football game out of Yankee Stadium and then canceled the series felt otherwise. They believed that going back to the campus would indeed be a discouragement to the gamblers.

It seems clear that putting a college sport into the category of a spectacle has the opposite effect. Gambling in this field is unlikely to diminish so long as the great arenas are made the scene of major contests.

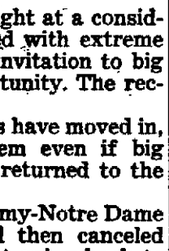

When commercial exploitation of college athletes proceeds to the point where scandal is almost commonplace, it is time for colleges to ask themselves whether the revenue benefits are not now outweighed by the destructive moral consequences.

Keep Your Fingers Crossed

It will take a while to get used to the idea: John L. Lewis has signed a new coal contract without a fuss. There will not be a coal strike this year, unless he trumps up some other excuse for one.

The mine chieftain is moving up the scale in his 70's now. Maybe he's getting too old for these bitter scraps. Or maybe it's just Professor Lewis, master of labor strategy, taking a sabbatical. Wait till next year!

How to Avoid Being Typed As 'Mousy' by Other Women

Trying to describe another woman, the woman speaking searched around for words and then finally said: "This doesn't sound kind, but the only way I can describe her is to say that she is 'the mousy type.'"

Quite a few thoroughly nice women make that kind of impression on others. Yet no woman, of any age, ever needs to be the kind of person others think of as "mousy."

How to avoid it? Start with your looks. If you think you are rather nondescript-looking, get some zip into the picture you present to the world. You can do it easily through a graceful walk, a becoming and up-to-the-minute hair style, careful make-up, and clothes that make a definite impression.

COME OUT OF YOUR SHELL

Then work on your personality. The mousy type acts almost scared when she meets strangers. So avoid that withdrawn, frightened appearance, by looking right at the people who talk to you. Make some kind of small talk when the occasion demands. Let your face respond to what others say, instead of seeming to let nothing touch you.

Don't stand back waiting for others to make the first move toward friendliness. That is what the mousy little woman does. Make your liking for a new acquaintance felt. You can't go wrong by showing others you like them and enjoy their company. That is the sincerest kind of flattery—and everybody eats it up.

And don't be forever apologizing for your self. Do what you think is right. Do as well as you can. And then let other people take it or leave it.

How awful for any woman to be described as the "mousy type." How awful—but how absolutely unnecessary.

To All My Family;

After a full and interesting day in New York we four, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Stephan, were nicely located in our stateroom where we found flowers, baskets of fruit, wires and letters awaiting us, which is always a pleasant reminder that some one really cares and is extending a friendly bon voyage.

Soon we joined the 391 passengers and friends which I judged numbered an additional several hundred. Such a gay and happy crowd. I saw no tears as the parting hour approached. Three people did not heed the warning that it was time for guests to depart. The ship was already in motion and there was great consternation and excitement. By the help of sailors and rope ladders two excited women and one man were landed safely in a launch and whisked off to shore. Won't they have something to talk about! That was episode No. 1 and alls well that ends well. Now we will wait for the next thrill.

Sailing out of New York harbor at near midnight we watched from the deck the skyline, illuminated skyscrapers, and hillside homes where flickered millions of lights that blended in with thousands of green, blue, yellow and red neon light signs. Fainter and fainter they became twinkling stars soon to disappear leaving a silvery moon casting a gleam of beauty upon the water.

Westbrook Pegler

Pegler Says Drew Pearson Backed the Spanish Loyalists Hoping Russia Would Take Over Spain

Washington—Knowing Drew Pearson's character I took renewed interest when Senator Joseph R. McCarthy began his daring campaign to destroy his sinister power. At that time I did not know McCarthy but I had set up an instinctive resistance to the cry of "McCarthyism" which had been raised on behalf of the accused Owen Lattimore. The outcry against this "wanton persecution" of a fine "liberal" was so similar to the Communist clamor in defense of its own that I determined to weigh the facts.

Westbrook Pegler

This done, I have been convinced that Senator McCarthy was right. When the senator took after Pearson I bade him welcome to the hunt. It has been my purpose to discredit this liar and, if possible, to break his power as a service to this republic.

Many of our people, no doubt, regard him as a liar who justifies his lies by making them interesting. But his infamous abuse of James Forrestal just because he opposed the hidden designs of an organized monster in reference to Arabian oil for the navy was the limit. I am confident that the hidden motivation of that scurrilous attack which persisted until Forrestal went out a window will be proven in reasonable time.

Such a nasty, snarling campaign maintained by the rodents of the radio was not spontaneous. That was organized. The Americans have a right to know who organized it. I have a duty to find out and tell.

Senator McCarthy seemed to me to be tearing off in several directions when he said on the senate floor that Pearson had been valuable to the Communist party. True, Pearson had often dropped in propaganda consistent with the Communist interest but he had seemed erratic. Sometimes he seemed to take little digs at the comrades. But were these digs real or just feints?

I have begun to tell about Pearson's appeals for army commissions for Communists during the war, without even intimating that they were Communists. His abuse of the war department for keeping them out of combat situations where they could betray their commands to the Soviet enemy who was only half-heartedly pretending to be an ally.

For contrast, Pearson hounded Robert Stripling, the most successful anti-Communist we ever had on Capitol Hill. He finally got Stripling snatched by his draft board and, after VJ-Day, tried to get him transported to Japan for a long stretch—away from Washington where he was turning up Communist traitors. Stripling was getting too hot.

On April 14, 1943, Pearson laid on the line his own interpretation of the Soviet's attempt to make a satellite of Spain. Some of us were honestly confused about Spain. She had grand traditions but her economy was down, her people were ragged and her aristocracy, the bravest cult of genteel people on earth by contrast with the raucous vulgarians of Washington and London, were brought to challenge. The Spanish patriotic forces were called Fascists, a hated word. But the so-called Loyalists were actually the forces of Soviet Russia.

This was a showdown between the Soviet's puppet forces in Spain and western civilization. The equation is now reproduced in Korea, with American young men dying in an ill-chosen field of battle.

What had Pearson to say about that war? Remember, this great pundit is no sentimental essayist. His "writing" is trash that would shame a backward child. He deals in rough-hewn facts. He is a prophet. Pearson knows.

What did he know in April, 1943?

"Today, in the state department, many of the reactionaries will admit they made a tragic mistake in boycotting the Spanish Loyalist government during the Spanish civil war."

That was what he professed to know. This was 1943. The Americans were in North Africa. Pearson regretted that the Soviet foreign legions, so like the North Koreans and the Chinese Red hordes in Korea, had not swept down through Spain planting the iron curtain on the country which is now the last remaining, stoutly anti-Soviet nation in Europe, dumping that fine aristocracy and the nuns and priests into mass graves like the pits which swallowed 15,000 Polish officers, the flower of a nation's manhood, after the Soviet massacre of Katyn forest.

Who were the "reactionaries" in the state department?

They were the despised "cookie-pushers," the "striped-pants" boys by contrast with the fatuous Joseph E. Davies, who made a "mission" to Moscow and found Stalin the sort of man that children and dogs instinctively took to.

These "reactionaries" of the state department soon lost out. The pro-Soviet set moved in, with Acheson and Alger Hiss at their head and a horrrifying proportion of homosexuals planted in a sinister maze. Adolph Berle, one of the precious Harvard study-boys, testified that there were "leaks" of secretary information in state. One of Pearson's "legmen" was familiar there and secrets often showed up in Pearson's column.

Listen now to this from Pearson that same day:

"Even more important, many diplomats believe that had the dictators been crushed in their practice war in Spain"—he doesn't regard Stalin as a dictator—"had the United States shown that it meant to throw its weight behind the democracies"—that means that our Soviet enemy is a "democracy"—"the present war never would have happened."

How true; how damned true. In that case, we would have helped the Soviet enemy come up in the rear of Italy, France, Ireland, Britain and Germany and it would not now be necessary for Stalin to make the exertion of throwing Eisenhower out and rounding up the new, green American army for transportation to the slave camps of the Soviet.

Senator McCarthy was righter than I had realized. If he hasn't been "doing a job for the Communist party," to quote McCarthy's words to the senate, Pearson certainly can get "A" for effect.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Seize Chance to Even Score

Discussion today of a reader's question draws out an old maxim: "Make hay while the sun shines."

Q—The opponets need 120 for their first meld, and we need only 50 points. We make our meld, and the opponents have trouble. Should we play for a fast out or should we play for a big score on such a hand

A—Play for a big score. This is your big chance to even matters up, so why settle for less? The chances are that you and your partner can each pick up a real fistful of cards, and that you can then control the discard pile for the rest of the hand.

This situation and the question remind me of a story about Canfield, owner of a famous gambling house a generation or two ago. He ran one game in which the "house" had very little advantage, and was asked why he bothered with it.

"That's easy," said Canfield. "The average man will stay and lose more than he'll stay and win. Take that man over there," and he pointed to a customer, "he's often had a run of bad luck and dropped $1000. But if he has good enough luck to win $500, he quits for fear that his luck will change. I'm bound to wind up a winner against him, and most players are just like him."

Of course, Canasta is not a gambling game—I know many pillars of the church who enjoy playing an innocent game of Canasta (and some of them are pretty good players)—but the story still applies. The average Canasta player is too timid to take full advantage of his good luck. He's bound to lose to a more courageous opponent (provided that skill is otherwise equal).

Q—We are a "club" of six women, who meet once a week to play six-hand Canasta. We want to arrange a different set of partners each week so that everybody eventually gets to play with everybody else. How can this be arranged?

A—There are 20 different arrangements, so it will take 20 weeks to exhaust all the possible combinations. By that time, you will surely have a few absentees and other interruptions of the schedule.

The best course for any club is to write down a few different partnerships in advance and choose one of them out of a hat each week. Keep a record of which people played together, so that you can keep changing if the idea continues to appeal to you.

The simplest method is to give each player a number, and then write down just a string of numbers to show what the arrangement is. For example write down 1-2-3 against 4-5-6 for one week; 1-2-4 against 3-5-6 for another week; and so on. If somebody drops out, give her number to the player who takes her place.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Mary Louise Burd Bride in Pennsylvania Church Wedding

News of a wedding in Zelienople, Pa., of the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, 422 East Seventh St., Dixon, and Will Burd, Dixon, has reached the society desk in the form of a clipping from a Pennsylvania paper. Miss Mary Louise Burd, the bride, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Burd, Zelienople, former Dixonites.

White pom-poms, glads, snapdragons, ferns and palms formed a green and white background at the candlelit altar of the Harmony - Zelienople Presbyterian church on Friday evening, Jan. 5, 1951, for the nuptial ceremony in which Miss Mary Louise Burd became the bride of Robert A. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Anderson, Chicago.

Rev. Richard A. Davis read the double ring ceremony at 8 o'clock before an assemblage of family and friends.

Mrs. R. E. Murphy was at the organ for the nuptial prelude, she concluded her selections with The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as the signal for the bridal party to enter the aisle leading to the altar. Mrs. Paul R. Stitt was soloist.

Mrs. Glen English was matron of honor and Susan Bergmann, daughter of the James Bergmanns, Evans City, was flower girl.

Glen English of Evans City, was best man and the ushers were James Bergmann and Clair Druschel of Evans City.

Designs Own Gown

Miss Burd's bridal gown of white slipper satin was fashioned with puff sleeves that tapered at the elbow to form points over the hand. The fitted bodice was trimmed with a row of tiny covered buttons down the back, and her fingertip veil was held to her coiffure by a lace cap trimmed with orange blossoms, her wedding dress was designed and made by the bride. The bride, given in marriage by her father, carried a bouquet of an orchid placed on her white Bible, with tiny white ribbon streamers and tiny flowers and ferns tied into the streamers.

Blue taffeta fashioned the lace yoked and full skirted gown worn by the matron of honor. Her headpiece was of sweet-peas and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. The flower girl wore yellow net over yellow taffeta. She scattered rose petals from a tiny basket.

For the ceremony the bride's mother wore a biege crepe and lace dinner dress and her corsage was pink roses. Mrs. Anderson wore a brown lace dinner dress and her corsage was yellow roses.

To Reside in Zelienople

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors.

The bride and groom left on a motor trip, and for traveling the bride wore a tailored gray suit with black accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Zelienople where Mr. Anderson is employed by the Lawrence Copper and Bronze company.

Presbyterian Women's Group Installs Officers

The first meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Association of the year was an impressive candle light service for the installation of new officers. Against a background of lighted tapers and to the accompaniment of soft organ music, Mrs. Robert A. Schmitt conducted the installation service. Each officer, as she came forward was presented a candle, the color of which, signified the office and the duties of it.

The new officers installed were: president, Mrs. John R. Steele, Jr.; vice president, Mrs. Stirling P. Stackhouse; recording secretary, Mr. Albert Vandenberg; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Theodore Moore; treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Soper; program and literature, Mrs. R. A. Miller; stewardship and spiritual life, Mrs. Guy S. Davis, and social education and action, Mrs. B. B. Cartwright. Group chairmen are: Group I, Mrs. M. F. MacDonald; Group II, Mrs. Henry Dressel and Group III, Mrs. J. E. Arrington.

Mrs. Guy Davis gave devotions. She stressed the importance of sharing the work of an organization and claimed that one talent put to use was worth ten idle ones. She suggested the motto, "The individual, each one of us, saved to serve." "We cannot go higher until we go deeper," she said. The theme of the organization is to be "Thine is the Power."

Mrs. John Dixon who was introduced by Mrs. Steele as the new secretary of music introduced the church organist, Miss Alice Thomson who played Mendelssohn's "Choral," the sixth organ sonata.

A business meeting was held at the conclusion of which Mrs. Steele presented outgoing president, Mrs. Schmitt, a corsage as a token of thanks for her successful year in office.

Mrs. Schmitt and Mrs. Steele presided at a beautifully appointed table. A social hour followed.

Mrs. Stirling Stackhouse was hostess chairman, assisted by Mrs. John Dixon, Mrs. William Guppy, Mrs. H. W. Thomson, Mrs. C. C. Clausen, and Mrs. Max Van Scoy.

How to Grow Old Happily By Foundation for 40-Plus

NEW YORK—America, famous for its production capacity, is now producing one commodity at a record rate—old people.

Because science has conquered so many diseases, people just aren't dying as young as they used to,creating a new national problem.

"Our society has to learn how to live with an aging population," says Janet Baird, executive director of the Foundation for Forty-Plus Living, "and we ourselves have to learn how to grow old happily."

Miss Baird is a tall, blue-eyed blonde still in her 30's. "I'm the only woman in town who lies about her age—upwards," she says, with a laugh.

* * *

The Foundation is trying to do the necessary education job. It picked 40 as a turning point, because it feels when you're 40 it's time to begin thinking about what you'll do at 65.

There's a lot more to it than buying a good rocking chair. Actually, says Miss Baird, it's a three-fold problem: interests, physical condition, and security.

Interests are important, because if you retire without anything to occupy your mind, you'll be miserable.

"People with active minds," says Miss Baird, "are happy and useful, despite their years. Look at men like Bernard Baruch and Connie Mack."

JANET BAIRD: She lies about her age—upwards.

* * *

Next, be sure to have a thorough physical check-up in your 40's, when most chronic diseases of old age begin. They can be detected and often cured. You'll go into old age with a healthy body, which helps make for happiness.

Finally, prepare for your financial secuity while you can. If possible, get some good annuities. But if you can't afford the outlay, you can still plan for independence.

She says be sure to have a hobby. Maybe you can capitalize on it. If you like fiddling with tools, you can probably set up a little fix-it shop, for example. Or, if that won't work, try to get a job you'll be able to handle when you're older.

Whatever it is, the time to plan is when you're young enough to do it. If you wait until necessity comes along, it may be too late.

* * *

Miss Baird has written "These Harvest Years," which she calls a "how-to-do" book for growing older.

She thinks we have to revise our thinking about old age. We should stop concentrating on a person's actual years; chronological age, she says, doesn't mean as much as how old a person feels.

That's the philosophy of the Foundation, which is serving as a clearing house for information about old age to show the general public and industry how to deal with the aged.

Miss Baird's thoughts on old people boil down to this: "We train children to be happy adults; it's high time we started training adults to be happy old people."

Earle, Head of Lions, Speaks To Own Club

John Earle, district deputy governor of Lions International, paid an official visit Tuesday to his home club at their dinner meeting at the Nachusa hotel.

In a short talk on the importance of Lions clubs he said, "We of Lions International may not realize it . . . but to me it seems that we are building a monument, a living edifice of service, that will be a beacon to all the world for countless ages to come.

Ideal of Few Men

"It is the ideal of a few men who realized that the desire to serve could be much more effective if it were the program of a group rather than that of an individual. Because that ideal was deep in the hearts of many men in many nations, Lions International has grown until, today, it is planted in 29 nations of the world and has become the largest and most influential of all service organizations."

Work Not Completed

Earle said the Lions' "monument" was not complete but would continue to grow as long as members continue to serve others. He asked that the attendance record of the Dixon club be improved until it is like other clubs which record 100 per cent attendance month after month.

The speaker is district deputy governor for northwestern Illinois which includes 14 clubs.

Vital Points Hit by Walkout

Philadelphia and Trenton, N. J.

Report Layoffs

The tie-up began to affect industry in the current war mobilization period. One steel company in Chicago laid off 1,800 workers. The Budd company in Philadelphia, one of the largest manufacturers of railroad cars, laid off 1,700 employes.

A rail union spokesman in Washington said officials were attempting to get the switchmen back to their jobs. He accused the carriers of provoking the strike, and said the Truman administration is "aiding and abetting" the railroads.

The yard workers, he said were disturbed because of the government's wage-price freeze and an advertising campaign in which the railroad management said a December "memorandum of agreement" was a binding contract.

Four unions involved in the dispute with the carriers had demanded 48 hours pay for 40 hours work.

'Ike' Arrives; Will Report on Europe Plight

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew into Washington today to report to President Truman and congress on his survey of Europe's will and ability to oppose Communist aggression.

The general's four-engine plane came into the National airport at 11:22 a.m. (CST) after a flight from West Point, N. Y., where Eisenhower spent last night.

Eight minutes later, at 11:30—the officially fixed hour—a White House car drove up with the president.

Eisenhower's plane wheeled in to the military air transport terminal and the general descended to receive a warm handshake from Truman.

WALTHAM, Mass., (AP) — George Bell's kitten ran up a tree and couldn't come down again.

Its tail frozen to a branch in Monday's freezing rain and there the kitten sat until discovered yesterday.

Find No Evidence For Mattoon High School Sex Club

CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) —"No evidence" of a teenage "sex club" in Mattoon was reported yesterday by the Coles county grand jury.

The investigation was made by the grand jury after a Mattoon newspaper carried an article alleging that a juvenile "sex club" existed in the city.

Some 20 persons including two ministers, law enforcement officers, school officials and a newsman testified before the jury.

The grand jury, after its investigation, said, "We feel that this problem must be faced and met primarily in the home. We earnestly urge the concerted efforts of the churches, schools, civic groups and all youth-serving organizations to provide intelligent supervision, care and guidance of the young people."

Earlier this month the Mattoon Journal-Gazette in a published article said the father of a 16-year old girl informed the newspaper that his daughter told him she had been asked to join the club. The father, whose name was withheld, said his daughter told him that to qualify for membership, a girl must have sexual relations with a man in the presence of a second man.

The father said his daughter estimated there were "100 to 150" girls in the club.

The newspaper also reported that a clergyman related he was "propositioned" by a teen age girl who said she was a member of a club which has sexual relations as a requirement for "good standing."

Mrs. Alice Caton, the Coles county probation officer, previously had said an investigation by her office showed that such a club existed. She said the club was formed four months ago and had 34 members.

Plevin, Truman Pledge to Bar 'Compromise'

WASHINGTON, (AP)— President Truman and French Prime Minister Rene Plevin wound up their two-day talks with announcement late last night of a pledge to bar compromise with aggression by either Soviet Russia or Communist China.

A formal communique said they agreed that "aggression must not be rewarded or the menace of aggression appeased." Authorized American officials said this ruled out any idea that France might join in a Korean settlement on Red China's terms or knuckle under to Soviet pressure for a "neutral" Germany.

The two leaders said at the same time they favored efforts to bring about an "honorable settlement" in Korea. They promised too that the United States and France would neglect no "genuine opportunity" to settle international disputes by negotiations.

Mr. Truman and Plevin ended their top level exchange of views late yesterday with a third session of nearly 90 minutes at the White House. Shortly before midnight they issued a communique which stressed that the U. S. and France saw eye to eye on major current problems of dealing with Communist aggression in Europe and Asia.

Pleven stayed over in the capital today to attend a Capitol Hill luncheon arranged by Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle. He plans to leave tomorrow for Canada.

Quebec Bridge Collapses, Kills Three in Autos

THREE RIVERS, Que., (AP)— Four spans of the concrete and steel Duplessis bridge collapsed early today and sent at least three persons to their death. In 26 below zero weather their cars plunged into the St. Maurice river.

Each span is 180 feet long, part of a $3,000,000 highway bridge connecting Three Rivers with De La Madeleine across the St. Maurice river.

The dead in the bridge crash, unidentified in early police reports, were drivers of three cars carried into the river when more than 500 feet of the $3,000,000 nine-span structure collapsed.

Three persons were injured and taken to a hospital.

The St. Maurice joins the St. Lawrence here, 80 miles north of the border between Vermont and Canada.

Korea Decision

TOPEKA. (AP)—Alf M. Landon said today the world political situation has been altered completely by the United States' decision to stay in Korea and by its ability to do so through superior firepower.

The Russians, not the United Nations, are being pinned down in Korea, said Landon, the 1936 Republican presidential nominee.

The Russians cannot abandon their Chinese Communist satellites, Landon said, and the United Nations by remaining in Korea will relieve Communist pressure on Indo-China, India and even Western Europe.

UN Committee Labels China 'Aggressor'

By STANLEY JOHNSON

LAKE SUCCESS, (AP) — The United Nations political committee labelled Communist China an aggressor in Korea at an emotion-charged session late last night, but left wide open what new steps, if any, to take against the Peiping regime.

Forty-four delegates including those of Britain, France, Canada, the Latin American states and all of America's Atlantic pact Allies, shouted "Yes" as their names were called.

THANKS GOD

"I thank God," said U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin turning to embrace Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb. Jebb's last-minute support had swung many wavering countries into line.

Seven nations—India, Burma, Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, White Russia and the Soviet Ukraine—voted "No". Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Pakistan, Sweden, Syria, Yeman and Yugoslavia abstained. Saudi Arabia did not take part in the vote.

Before the American triumph—marking the end of the hardest fight the U. S. ever has waged in the U. N.—the committee trounced paragraph by paragraph an Arab-Asian call for a new peace appeal to Peiping. It never got more than 18 approving votes.

'March to Disaster'

India's Sir Benegal N. Rau, who led the fight for its adoption, declared the Asian bloc had tried to halt what he termed the march to disaster. He said its defeat would cut off all negotiations with Red China.

The security council is scheduled to meet today (at 9:45 a. m. CST) to take the Korean item off its agenda. This will clear the way for approval by the full general assembly, probably tomorrow, of the Amercian resolution. The U. S. delegation expects to pick up two or three more votes by then.

The hotly-contested U. S. proposal—

Points of Proposal

1. Decides that Communist China engaged in aggression in Korea.

2. Requests a committee of collective security to study what to do about meeting this aggression, but authorizes it to hold up its work if a good offices committee reports progress on a peaceful settlement.

3. Approves creation of the good offices committee to consist of assembly President Nasrollah Entezam of Iran and two others whom he will name.

4. Calls on the Peiping regime to withdraw its nationals and forces from Korea and to stop fighting U. N. forces.

5. Affirms the determination of the U. N. to continue its action in Korea to meet the aggression.

6. Calls upon all states and authorities not to help the aggressors.

Incorporate Amendment

The resolution as adopted incorporated a Lebanese amendment into the second section to make clear that the collective measures committee should not recommend sanctions while a chance for a peaceful settlement exists.

This answered objections by Britain, which had feared that passage without this qualification might have trapped the U. N. in all-out war with China.

The chief importance of the resolution lies in its clear-cut moral judgment on Peiping and its reiteration of U. N. determination to oppose aggression.

Harmon Area Farmer Ends Life; Blame Despondency

A verdict of death by a "suicidal hanging" was returned today by a coroner's jury in the death of John Samuel "Sam" Kihlstrom, 56, Harmon area farmer.

Kihlstrom's body was found hanging from a hayloft ladder in his barn shortly after noon Tuesday. According to sheriff's officers called to the scene Kihlstrom evidently hanged himself with a noose made from a rope with an iron ring in one end. The end of the rope was fastened to one of the top rungs of the hayloft ladder.

Was Despondent

The family gave mental despondency as probable cause of the suicide. Officers said the widow stated her husband asked her when dinner would be ready then went into the barn. Approximately five minutes later Mrs. Kihlstrom asked her son, Carl, to call his father to dinner. The son found the body.

He testified at the inquest today that he took his father's body down and applied artificial respiration in an attempt to revive Kihlstrom. Time of the hanging was placed at 12:30 p.m.

Sheriff Charles H. Redebaugh, Chief Deputy John Stauffer and Coroner Robert Preston were called to the farm two and one-fourth miles east of Harmon. The sheriff testified at the inquest.

Had Sold Farm

Kihlstrom had sold the farm he was living on and had purchased another, it was learned.

Funeral services for Mr. Kihlstrom will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the First Lutheran church, Princeton. The Rev. Carl Nelson will officiate. Burial will be in Elmlawn Memorial park, Princeton. Family services will be held at the Preston funeral home at noon Thursday.

Mr. Kihlstrom was born in New Bedford, Ill., June 10, 1894. Before moving to the Harmon area he lived in Walnut. He is survived by his wife, Hannah; one son, Carl; three daughters, Mrs. Elmer Freeberg, Princeton; Mrs. Robert Ringler and Mrs. John Joe Thomas, Dixon, and five grandchildren. His father, Otto Kihlstrom, Walnut, survives, but his mother died about a year ago.

May OK Use of Nationalists Against Reds

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Informed administration officials look for a change in United States policy which would permit limited use of Chinese Nationalist resources against the Communists.

Serious consideration, it was learned, is being giving to encouraging and assisting the operations of anti-Communist guerrillas on the Chinese mainland as one means of diverting Communist strength which might otherwise be employed against Korea or Indochina.

Answer Three Queries

Officials who may not be named said three questions had to be answered before any final decision on action: (1) How effective and determined are the guerrilla forces? (2) Are they loyal to Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, as the Nationalists assert? (3) Would arms and equipment furnished to them definitely be used against the Communists and not allowed to fall into Red hands?

Rep Judd (R-Minn), member of the house foreign affairs committee, said yesterday there are nearly 2,000,000 guerrillas now abroad in China.

Plan Infiltration?

Judd also told a reported he had reason to believe the government "is actively considering releasing the forces in Formosa to make as much trouble as they can for the Communists on the mainland."

His disclosure coincided with unofficial information from the administration—whose Far Eastern policies Judd frequently has assailed. It is known a study of the possible use of guerrillas has been under way at the state and defense departments for some time.

To the extent that Chiang used American military supplies and some of his own people to bolster the anti-Communist operation, this could be described as a releasing of Nationalist forces so far as American policy is concerned.

Situation Changed

The policies laid down by President Truman last June, following the Korean-Communist aggression, still stand on the record. But officials recognize that the situation in part has moved out from under them.

The President ordered the Seventh fleet to protect Formosa against Communist attack and called on Chiang to halt all attacks from Formosa against the Communist mainland. The aim of these moves was to neutralize the island and avoid giving the Reds an excuse for intervening in Korea or attacking Formosa.

Subsequently the administration took two other steps. It began shipping selected war materials to Chiang to fill out the worst gaps in the equipment of his Formosan force of about 750,000 troops. And it turned down Chiang's offer to put 33,000 troops into Korea, mainly because the U. S. feared that if the Chinese Nationalists moved in on the United Nations side the Chinese Communists would move in on the other.

Despite these precautions, the Chinese Communists intervened anyway. So that portion of U. S. Formosa policy based on the hope of keeping Red Chinese out of Korea ceased to have any further use.

Officials agree that the simplest way to get help to the guerrillas would be to use Chiang's contacts with them.

LOSES 30 LBS. USED RENNEL

Mrs. Lucille Smith of 151 12th St., Silvis, Ill. writes, "I have lost 30 lbs. thanks to Rennel Concentrate. I really feel fine and wish to state that there are no ill effects. The Rennel home recipe for reducing has truly made reducing easy."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's no trouble and costs little. Contains nothing harmful. Ask your druggist for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into pint bottle and add unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. It's that simple. If reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic with the first bottle, return it to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Now is the time to reduce. Ask your druggist for Rennel.

DIXON EVENING TELEGRAPH

Dixon, Illinois, Wednesday, January 31, 1951 — Page Seven

Coughlin's Column

ATTENDING A BANQUET where Lyle (Dutch) Clarno, veteran Big 10 referee is the speaker, makes column-writing a dead cinch. "Dutch" was loaded with anecdotes when he spoke at the Methodist Men's club dinner last night at which the members of the church who are athletes at Dixon high were honored. Of course when one has 30 years of athletic connections, as does "Dutch," speech-making is quite a cinch, too.

* * * *

ONE OF THE BEST of Dutch's offering was the "Happy Chandler incident. "Happy" was a coach of a Kentucky school until his lack of success placed him in the job of principal. His coach-successor had difficulty with the team star who was chronically on the scholastic black-list. Each Friday, however, with the aid of special exams, he managed to remain eligible. Finally the patience of the instructors wore thin and the star was again failing.

"Happy's" successor took the matter to Chandler who agreed to submit the player to a one-question exam. Forthwith the star was trotted before "Happy" who asked,

"Son, what is the capital of the grand old state of Kentucky."

The star athlete pondered that one, then answered,

"Versailles."

His coach threw up his hands and started to walk from the room.

"Wait a minute, wait a minute," said "Happy." "Let me see, Versailles is 15 miles from Frankfort. Frankfort is the capital. Now 15 from 100 leaves 85 which is passing in any school!"

* * * *

"DUTCH SAID THAT THE most interesting assignment of his 30 years as an official was a deaf mute basketball tournament at Jacksonville, Ill.

"Every player on the 17 teams entered, coaches, sportswriters, and 75 per cent of the fans were deaf mutes," Clarno remarked.

He was working the tournament with Frank Beach (father of Fred Beach of the U. of I. cage squad this season) and the between-game periods and the games themselves were the quietest things imaginable.

"When the tournament was over," Dutch said, "Frank and I drove 50 miles before we said a word to each other."

* * * *

THERE WAS THE kidnap story, too. The would-be kidnapers had directed a threatening letter to a Smith, head of an Eastern industrial concern, demanding $50,000 or his wife would be kidnaped. The letter found its way to a Smith of lesser circumstances—a poor, downtrodden Smith—who promptly answered the note:

"Dear Sirs: I haven't got $50,000 but am certainly interested in your proposition.

* * * *

"Dutch" recalled his experiences handling the traditional Northwestern—Notre Dame basketball game which at one time was played on New Year's eve.

There was usually a gay crowd, Dutch told his audience, and as all sports fans know, the contest was always of a rough nature—the rivalry was keen.

In this particular game, with "Dutch" Lonberg leading the Wildcats and the late George Keogan piloting the Irish, Clarno had banished no less than four Wildcat captains on fouls—almost as fast as Lonberg could name 'em. When the fourth went to the bench, Clarno looked to Lonberg for designation of No. 5.

The frustrated Lonberg eyed his remaining regulars and turned to Clarno:

"You name him, Dutch, maybe you'll have better luck than I had."

* * * *

Clarno said he was perhaps responsible for the fifth official being authorized for Big 10 games. That came about when he was mowed down by players in the Wildcat-Minnesota game in 1949.

Big 10 referees have always been instructed to stand to the right of the offensive backfield in order to observe forward motion. This, said "Dutch," left them vulnerable in case of laterals and sweeps as was the case when Perricone used him for a shield from Gopher tacklers on that fateful day.

"Dutch" remarked that they carted him off unconscious and revived him in the dressing room.

"They tell me," he said, "that the crowd of 65,000, stood up and cheered when I left and I wasn't even around to hear 'em."

Vince Oehl kept jumping 17 pins a set with 125-142-159. A couple more games at that rate and he'd have had a fairly good game . . . The first ragtime doubles ends today, after running for about four weeks, and a new one will start with a few added features. Ken is planning . . . Junie McMahon, last year's Peterson's Classic champion will be at the Recreation on Tuesday, Feb. 13 for a couple of hours exhibition and instruction, and you should make plans to watch him, that is if you're like us and need some instruction BAD . . . Karl Shaver spaced his games 20 pins, with 121-141-161 in the IN Div. loop . . . It may surprise you as it did us to find that Lyle Myers' chef at the Landmark, which is usually a man's job, is handled deliciously by a mere slip of a gal, Helen Schertner, and we wonder if we should call her a chefette, anyway the last couple of times we've been there recently we ette and ette . . . If you failed to notice the schedule of the Mixed league we printed this week, together with the roster, you better check up at the Recreation on what team you're on and when you're scheduled as the Mixed loop begins firing at 5 o'clock next Sunday night . . . We can't help but believe that Ollie Schrock, Sr., and Earl Slagle, Sr., took their Juniors' spots on Walder & Rhodes five last night, as their series last night showed Ollie Schrock 520 and Earl Slagle 474, which if it's the junior members of the families, sounds like a tale from the Arabian Nights . . . We keep finding out the most surprising things, the last eyebrow raiser being that Walt Klein used to be a song plugger for Will Rossiter Music House in Chicago, many long (he didn't say how many) years ago.

BUDGE GIVES "LOOP" INSTRUCTION

NEW YORK—(AP)—Six "loop" instruction films (16 mm) showing tennis strokes demonstrated by Don Budge have been prepared by Russell H. Kettel of the Middlesex School Concord, Mass. Each loop film shows one stroke in slow motion. They are service, forehand, backhand drive, forehand volley, backhand volley and overhead smash. Each film being a continuous loop, a stroke may be shown over and over again.

The loop film idea idea is being used by English coaches and it may become one of the standard methods of tennis coaching in this country, too.

Ohio Drops to Walnut; Steward Loses to Malta

STILLMAN VALLEY— Coach John R. Worley's once-beaten Mounders rang up their thirteenth victory of the season here last night, launching a powerful attack in the second and third quarters to down Stillman Valley, 68-43.

Off to a slow start, the Mounders, behind Earl Hanke and Bob Hanes, pulled away in the second to claim a convincing 37-19 lead at the half. From that point on it was easy. Coach Worley cleaned the bench of reserves in the final segment. Hanke, who contributed 10 points to the second-quarter blasting, wound up with 20 points and the game's high scoring honors.

In the opener, the Mt. Morris frosh-sophs were defeated 48-42.

Coach Worley's club will attempt to get over the jinx "13" mark Friday when they meet Mt. Carroll. It should be an easy triumph, however, because the Mounders already possess a 52-18 victory over Friday's foe.

The Hawks piled up a 34-18 margin at halftime and spread that to 63-31 before the reserves took over in the final quarter.

In the preliminary, the Oregon lights scored a 59-37 triumph.

It was a ding-dong battle that was not decided until the final horn. Bill Mihm paced Amboy with 22 points.

In the preliminary Coach Larry Callan's Amboy frosh-sophs won a comparatively easy victory over Ashton's lights, 40-26.

Walnut led by two points at the half, 32-30, but the Bulldogs lost three regulars in the rugged second to allow the home club to ease into the victory. Sisler and Piper paced Ohio while Gallentine and "Atom" Bohm were high for the winners.

Methodist Men's Club Hears Big 10 Ref

HERE IS A SCENE from a banquet held Tuesday night in the Methodist church social rooms for Dixon high athletes who are members of the church. Guest speaker was Lyle (Dutch) Clarno, well-known Big 10 athletic official. Seated, left to right, are the Rev. A. C. Nesmith, pastor of the church; Jim Mercer, Athletic Director Arthur Bowers, Curt Westfall, Tony Castagnoli, Jim Hey, Lyle Clarno (the speaker), Walter Krug, master of ceremonies and president of the club; Duane Swarts, Lloyd Swan and Sam Owens. Grouped behind are the high school students, who were the guests of honor last night.

'Dutch' Clarno Scores Hit With Local Audience

Lyle (Dutch) Clarno, well-known Big 10 and prep school official, knows the rules as an after-dinner speaker too.

Dutch, who has been blowing a whistle for 30 years in athletic contests, told a Methodist Men's club audience here last night of his wide experiences as a big time official.

Well supplied with anecdotes, Clarno interspersed them with sidelights behind being a Big 10 official, and finished with some off-the-record remarks about the much-publicized Garden variety of the cage sport.

Honor Athletes

The dinner was in honor of Methodist youth who participate in athletics at Dixon high. Walter Krug, president of the Men's club, served as master of ceremonies. Jim Hey, a close friend of Clarno, introduced the speaker.

For those who criticize the work of athletic officials, Dutch remarked:

"There's a foul on every play (football). There's no question about it. So we've got to use judgment and pick out the worst fouls, the dirty fouls, the ones that have direct bearing on the play."

Explains Hiring

He explained the hiring of Big 10 officials, their assignments, signals that are flashed between officials when the decisions are in doubt, and disclosed that "scouts" (four of them) are employed in every Big 10 game to rule on the caliber of the officiating.

"Dutch" made other interesting observations. "The easiest game to call," he said, "is one where you call all the fouls. If you call 'em all no one can say anything.

Must Use Judgment

"But," he added, "that makes a poor game. An official must use good judgment. Judgment—that is it."

The veteran referee will complete 20 years in Big 10 football next season but gave up basketball officiating last year when it became too fast.

In answer to a query, "Dutch" said he somewhat favored the "slow" game—but not the stall. The Oklahoma A. and M. style suited him, he said.

No Reason for It

As to raising the baskets, he saw no reason for it. Why penalize the not-so-tall player? As he saw it there was no reason, either, to rule out the seven-footers from the game. The only solution for coaches with undersized squads is to grow 'em bigger, he thought.

Methodist youth honored last night were Jim Collins, Allen Bonhoff, Ronald LeFevre, Walter Leppert, Bill Lafferty, Jim Mercer, Albert Newcomer, Bennie Roe, Denton Swarts, Duane Swarts, Bruce Huffman, Jim Boedeker, Art Muller, and Ray Rogers. Floyd Acker could not be present.

Lincoln, Bradley Win in Downstate Basketball Games

SPRINGFIELD, (AP) — Lincoln and Bradley posted new wins last night in the downstate Illinois prep basketball race.

Lincoln inched past Monticello, 53-50, for its seventeenth triumph in 19 starts. Lincoln ranks eighth in the Associated Press sportswriters poll.

Bradley, 12th, in the poll, cracked Joliet Catholic 57-47 for an 18-2 record.

In other important tilts, Edwardsville (won 14, lost 3) swamped Hillsboro 74-42; Hebron (19-1) ran over McHenry 63-24 and Peoria Spalding squeezed past Bloomington Trinity 51-50.

Franklin Grove Rallies to Whip Malden, 47-41

MALDEN—Coach Max Patrick's Franklin Grove squad staged a second-half comeback here last night to score its second win of the season over Malden, 47-41.

Franklin dropped far behind in the opening quarter 14-4, and trailed 24-17 at the half. A rally brought the victors to the fore at the end of the third segment 34-30.

Patrick's boys had trouble corralling Malden's towering center, Lampa, who scored 22 points. Larry McMillion had 18, and Gene Degner, 12, for the winners.

Guard Roger Johnson of the University of Arizona basketball team led the Tucson city recreation softball league in hitting last season with a .571 mark.

Ike Williams 3-1 Favorite Tonight

DETROIT, (AP)—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams is a strong three to one favorite to punch out a decision over Vic Cardell in a 10-round bout here tonight.

Williams looked plenty sharp in his final workout yesterday. But he won't be risking his title despite heavy pressure from the National Boxing Association that he defend his 135-pound crown.

The champion expects to weigh 142 pounds. Cardell, a full grown welterweight from Hartford, Conn., probably will have an advantage of five pounds.

The bout will be telecast starting at 9 p. m., (CST).

Cardell, 23-year-old campaigner, will be making his first appearance on a fight card here. During his four years as a professional boxer he has won 46 bouts, fought five draws and lost eight matches.

Win Bobsled Title

L'ALPE D'HUEZ, (AP)—Germany won the world's four-man bobsled championship today to end a three-year reign by the United States.

Today's victory gave the Germans a sweep of the bobsled championships. They won the two-man title Sunday.

The German team plummeted down the treacherous course in 1 minute 13:33 seconds on its first run then lowered it to a new course record of 1:11.65 the second time. Their total time was 2:24.98.

The second-place Americans were timed in 1:13.84 and 1:12.66 for a total time of 2:26.50.

FELLER ENTERS 200 CIRCLE

The 1950 American League season marked a milestone in the pitching career of Robert Feller of the Cleveland Indians. Bob entered the record book as the 54th hurler in major league history to win 200 or more games.

Of the 13 players on Duke University's varsity basketball roster, only one is a native of North Carolina. Duke is located at Raleigh, N. C.

USC Ends Search, Finds Coach Jesse Hill in Own Backyard

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — The nationwide search for a man to coach football at the University of Southern California ended exactly where it started—on the campus at USC.

The winner: Jesse Hill, head track coach at USC and one of the greatest all-around athletes in the school's history.

Dr. Fred B. Fagg, Jr., USC president made the formal announcement late yesterday and soon afterward a mass peace pipe smoking party was held in Dr. Fagg's office with representatives of the faculty athletic committee and powerful alumni groups puffing away in harmony.

Peace, It's Wonderful

Peace, it was wonderful, for until yesterday some of the groups were hardly in accord in the move to select a new football coach. All, it seemed, had different ideas about who should get the job vacated six weeks ago, under alumni pressure, by Jeff Cravath.

Dr. Fagg might have prefaced the Hill announcement with the final, binding statement that among those who would not get the position were Paul Brown, Don Faurot, Fritz Crisler, Bud Wilkinson, Charlie Caldwell, Bernie Bierman, Ray Eliot, Henry Franka and some 75 others, most of whom either didn't consider it or weren't considered anyhow.

Indefinite Contract

Hill, fortyish, youthful gray, good looking and easy in manner, was engaged, for an "indefinite period." Presumably it is for one year at a time, as has been the custom at USC prior to Cravath's three-year contract, on which he collected for the two years yet to go when he stepped out.

Hill's salary was not disclosed. Guesses ranged around $15,000, to include his job as head track coach.

Hill has coached football for 16 years—at Riverside and Long Beach Junior colleges, Corona high school, as an assistant at St. Mary's and Del Monte preflight during the war, when he was in the navy, and then as freshman coach at USC in 1946.

HAS BRIGHT OUTLOOK

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP) — The University of Houston's basketball team has come a long way in a short while. Entering intercollegiate competition on the court in the fall of 1945, the Cougars swept to the Lone Star conference crown the first year of play. They repeated in 1947. This season the team, under the tutelage of Alden Pasche, has been admitted to the rugged Missouri Valley Conference which includes such standouts as Bradley, St. Louis, Oklahoma A. & M., Detroit, Tulsa, Drake, and Wichita.

Faurot Will Remain at Missouri U.

COLUMBIA, MO., (AP)—Don Faurot had decided to stick with the University of Missouri as head football coach and athletic director.

Faurot, who had been under consideration for coaching jobs at two other schools, reached an agreement with the Missouri committee on intercollegiate athletics last night.

He has been head coach at Missouri since 1935, except for a three-year stretch in the navy during the war.

Ohio State and the University of Southern California had Faurot under consideration. The head football coaching vacancy at Southern California was filled last night with the appointment of Jesse Hill, USC track coach.

Ohio State athletic director Richard C. Larkins commented:

"I can only say that Missouri is very fortunate and is to be congratulated for retaining such a fine person as Don Faurot."

He said Faurot telephoned him after deciding to stay at Missouri.

Faurot reportedly will get a $1,500 salary increase. His present salary is $11,500 plus 7½ per cent in annuities.

Lee Center Bows To Bureau 51-29

BUREAU TOWNSHIP —Coach Johnny Sciacca's Lee Center five was downed 51-29 here last night by a Bureau township club which turned on the steam after the first quarter.

Forward Delhotal of the visitors nailed 20 points but found little scoring support from his mates. Lee Center demonstrated its best form in the third period when they scored nearly half of their total.

Coach Sciacca's boys are idle Friday and will next entertain Franklin Grove at Lee Center next Tuesday.

Illinois Strip Coal Miners Say They Heal, ReClaim Land

SPRINGFIELD, (AP)—Sportsmen and other conservationists have been worried about Illinois strip coal mines scarring the earth.

Now they are getting more assurance from the strippers that the scars are being healed and reclaimed for wildlife, forestry and pasturage.

More for Sportsmen

On top of that, more and more of the strippers are making the reclaimed lands available to sportsmen for hunting and fishing —and to some farmers for pasturage.

State strip mine operators say that for every 10 acres scarred by surface mines in the last 20 years, six acres have been healed and reclaimed.

Recovery involved the planting of 11,867,950 trees on 11,246 forested acres and the seeding of 15,603 acres for pasturage.

The figures are drawn from a 20-year progress report made by the Illinois Coal Strippers association to the state conservation department.

Improve 26,849 Acres

Eighteen Illinois counties have 46,703 stripped acres. Of these, 26,849 acres have been improved.

Illinois has about 80,000 more acres of underground minerals which can be mined by lifting off a thin earth cover and throwing it aside.

This denuding of the earth has led conservationists to charge strippers with destroying country beauty, tearing up farm lands, speeding soil erosion and driving game away.

Strippers reply that such mining, scientifically planned, can be a boon instead of a curse.

They say turning over the earth may make worthless lands valuable by putting minerals needed for plant growth within the reach of roots or seeds.

'Make Earth Richer'

They say blasting, digging and dumping swell the overturned earth to 25 percent its former mass, making it richer with water and air. Forage crops and trees flourish, they assert, where once there was only scrub growth.

They say the mining process conserves water in strip-made lakes and turns drab landscapes into attractive recreation areas for hunting, camping and fishing.

State game department engineers recently reported that 1,500 of 2,500 acres of water impounded on stripped areas are stocked with fish.

Some are open to the public, although permission is required in some cases. The department is asking the strippers to consider stocking and opening the other 1,000 acres of water to public or semi-public use.

Dairies Say Milk Exempt From Freeze, To Raise Price 1c

CHICAGO, (AP)—Two of Chicago's major dairies said last night they are convinced that milk is exempt from the government price freeze and that they will charge an additional one cent a quart, effective tomorrow.

The announcement by the Bowman and Borden companies was expected to be followed by other major dairies. The higher price by Bowman and Borden will make milk 23½ cents a quart for home deliveries and 21½ cents at stores.

Four dairies, including Bowman and Borden, had announced a one-cent boost last week but withdrew it when the government ordered a price freeze.

An Open letter to All of Our Friends and Policyholders

Dixon, Illinois
January 31, 1951

Dear Friends:

We are writing this letter to give you the true facts regarding the present status of our insurance agency, and to counteract some wild stories which have been circulating.

First of all, Warren Walder has recently received his orders to report for extended active duty with the Marine Corps. He has passed his physical and will leave in about three weeks. Harold Rhodes has not received any word regarding his being called back to service.

We both want you to know that business shall continue as usual in our agency. We have taken steps to assure that all of our policyholders will be given the same fine service that we have tried to give in the past. In fact we shall do everything in our power to see if we can give even better service.

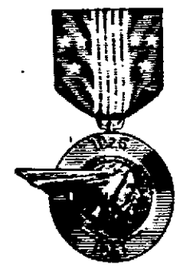

Warren would like to take this opportunity of publicly thanking all of you for the business you have favored him with in the past. He sincerely hopes that you will continue to stick by our agency in the future. Naturally we cannot accurately predict what the future will hold, but we do want you to know that no matter what may happen that you, our customers, will be protected adequately.

Even though we both have served our country before in World War Two, we feel that our greatest obligation is to our country, and we are proud to be of service

We sincerely hope that by this letter we have given you a true picture of the facts. We hope that we may continue to serve you. Thanks again to all of you.

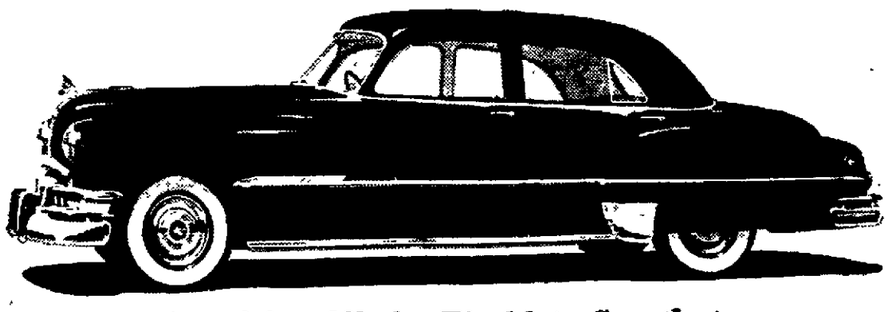

Most Sincerely,
WARREN E. WALDER
HAROLD L. RHODES
